Important notice to users of this map.

- Users of this orienteering map and permanent marker courses do so entirely at their own risk.
- All reasonable care must be taken when using various areas of Bradda Headlands and Glen especially in poor weather conditions and when navigating along paths and tracks, across open hillside, near the shoreline and clifftops.
- Users accept that Orienteering is an adventurous activity and that it may involve travelling over uneven surfaces and suitable footwear and clothing should be worn.
- Be advised that possession of this map does not indicate access to all areas on the map and that areas of private property have no access.
- Be aware that limited and restricted public access may occur at times due to safety requirements, maintenance work, upland operations or other activities.
- Pay attention to public notices and follow all safety signage.
- Be aware that not all paths and features may be marked on this map due to the changing nature of the terrain over time.
- Please respect the wildlife, plants and other users of Bradda Headlands and Glen - walkers, runners, upland workers, farmers, people fishing, café & play park users, etc.
- Any group planning to use Bradda Headlands and Glen for an activity should first contact DEFA to seek permission.
